5. article 6, paragraph 2, second indent of Directive (EU) 2015/1535

6. In relation to Article 18 of the Act in question, which encompasses a series of restrictive measures pertaining to the specified energy drinks, it is imperative to acknowledge the following:

Regulation (EU) No 1169/2011, which establishes harmonised European legislation regarding the information to be provided on food labels, already regulates beverages with high caffeine content or foods with added caffeine. Specifically, point 4 of Annex III stipulates the additional mandatory particulars that must be provided on the labels of these products 'High caffeine content. It is not recommended for children or pregnant or breastfeeding women. In the same field of vision as the name of the beverage, a reference in brackets should be provided in accordance with Article 13(1) of this Regulation, expressing the caffeine content in milligrams per 100 millilitres.'

The EFSA's published opinions on this subject over the years do not currently prohibit the consumption of these products by individuals under the age of 18. However, the opinions have identified thresholds that should not be exceeded on the basis of body weight.

At the community level, it would appear that compliance with the provisions of the FIC Regulation would be adequate and appropriate for the protection of pregnant women and children.

Italy therefore considers it necessary to issue a detailed opinion on the notified Act as it is considered disproportionate and therefore incompatible with Article 34 TFEU, which protects the free movement of goods. The prohibition of access to a segment of the Bulgarian market invariably imposes limitations on market access for products that have been lawfully marketed in other European Union (EU) member states.
