

DRAFT ROYAL DECREE APPROVING THE NATIONAL TECHNICAL PLAN FOR DIGITAL TERRESTRIAL TELEVISION AND REGULATING CERTAIN MEASURES TO PROMOTE THE TECHNOLOGICAL DEVELOPMENT OF DIGITAL TERRESTRIAL TELEVISION

Article 86 of General Telecommunications Law 11/2022 of 28 June establishes that it is the role of the Government to approve the national technical plans for radio and television broadcasting, given that the planning, management and monitoring of the public radio domain falls under the exclusive competence of the State as recognised in Article 149(1)(21) of the Spanish Constitution.

Royal Decree 391/2019 of 21 June approved the national technical plan for digital terrestrial television and certain aspects were regulated for the release of the second digital dividend. That Royal Decree established the actions to be carried out for the release of the second digital dividend band (band 694-790 MHz) from the use for the provision of digital terrestrial television (DTT) service, to be used for the provision of mobile broadband communications services. The process of releasing this band was completed on 31 October 2020, and this band is currently being used for the provision of wireless broadband electronic communications services, subject to the technical conditions laid down in Implementing Decision (EU) 2016/687 of 28 April 2016 on the harmonisation of the 694-790 MHz frequency band for terrestrial systems capable of providing wireless broadband electronic communications services and for flexible national use in the Union. In accordance with the provisions of the national technical plan, the digital terrestrial television service is provided in the 470 to 694 MHz frequency band (radio channels 21 to 48).

Royal Decree 391/2019 of 21 June also included, inter alia, some measures to boost technological innovation in televisual media services, in particular the implementation of high-definition (HD) television and the introduction of ultra-high-definition (UHD), as well as measures to favour the future evolution of broadcasting equipment towards more spectrally efficient technologies, and to favour the evolution of the fleet of digital terrestrial television receivers to be able to receive these broadcasts.

Likewise, on 14 February 2024, the cessation of DTT broadcasts in standard definition was completed, so that since that date all digital terrestrial television broadcasts in Spain are in high definition (HD).

At European Union level, Decision (EU) 2017/899 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 17 May 2017 on the use of the 470-790 MHz frequency band in the Union was published in the Official Journal of the European Union on 25 May 2017, with the aim of ensuring a coordinated approach to the use of that frequency band in the Union in accordance with common objectives. In recent years, there has also been an intense debate in Europe between the Member States and the European Commission on the future of the UHF band and the uses of that band in the years to come, and in the long term. This debate is mainly taking place within the European Union's Radio Spectrum Policy Group, which has adopted several opinions. One of the main debates taking place is the need for the technological evolution of DTT for the introduction of the most advanced coding and modulation techniques, which offer greater efficiency, robustness and flexibility.

At international level, the 2023 World Radiocommunication Conference (WRC-23), organised by the International Telecommunication Union (ITU), and held in Dubai (United Arab Emirates), from 20 November to 15 December 2023, included as agenda item 1.5 'Review the spectrum use and study the spectrum needs of existing services within the frequency band 470-960 MHz in Region 1, to consider, based on the results of studies of Resolution 235 (WRC 15), possible regulatory actions in the frequency band 470-694 MHz in Region 1'. Following discussions at WRC-23 on this point, a decision was taken to maintain the allocation of sub-band 470-694 in ITU Region 1, which includes Spain, solely for broadcasting services, and it was also agreed not to include these aspects as an agenda item for the World Radiocommunication Conference to be held in 2027, but to include it as a preliminary agenda item for the World Radiocommunication Conference to be held in 2031.

In most Member States of the European Union, digital terrestrial televisul broadcasts are already being carried out with DVB-T2 transmission technology. Therefore, Spain, since the cessation of digital terrestrial television broadcasts in standard definition (SD) has been completed, and since 14 February 2024 all digital terrestrial television broadcasts are in high definition (HD), must adopt measures to continue advancing in the incorporation of new technological innovation standards in the digital terrestrial television service that will enable a modern and technologically updated digital terrestrial television service, resulting in improved efficiency in the use of the radio spectrum and, ultimately, a higher quality and more attractive service for citizens, taking into account the social and informative relevance that currently continues to characterize the digital terrestrial television service in Spain, which remains as citizen's main line of access to audiovisual communication services.

In accordance with the initiatives being carried out in the European Union, and taking into account the results of the World Radiocommunication Conference 2023, since the cessation of broadcasts in standard definition has been completed in Spain and all digital terrestrial television broadcasts in Spain are in high definition, it is considered necessary to more precisely plan the progression to advanced digital terrestrial television standards, including DVB-T2 transmission technology, which significantly increases the binary regime capacity available in each digital multiple and therefore allows a more efficient use of the spectrum.

This improvement in the efficiency of the use of the public radio domain of DVB-T2 transmission technology will also allow the provision of digital terrestrial television services with ultra-high-definition (UHD) technology to be extended and generalized, with the undoubted advantages that this brings to citizens in their access to this type of audiovisual media service.

The design of each of the actions to be carried out, provided for in this Royal Decree, has as its final objective the evolution to the DVB-T2 transmission technology of all the digital multiplexes of DTT, and the use of HEVC as a new, more efficient coding standard, guaranteeing the necessary capacity so that all television channels can evolve in the future to broadcasts with UHD resolution.

To advance this objective, it is considered necessary to initially have a digital multiplex that evolves to DVB-T2 transmission technology, in which TV channels with UHD resolution will be broadcast simultaneously. It has been identified that the multiple RGE2, which currently includes a TV channel in UHD, is the most suitable to evolve to the DVB-T2 transmission technology from the first phase of the execution of the Plan, with the aim of favouring the implementation of this technology, and in particular the adaptation of the range of TV receivers to be able to receive this new technology.

On the other hand, other measures to promote technological innovation in television audiovisual services are included to favour the implementation of ultra-high-definition (UHD). It is also expected that the State Secretariat for Telecommunications and Digital Infrastructures may authorize experimental technical broadcasts that make use of other technologies in the digital terrestrial television service with technologies of greater spectral efficiency, subject to the availability of frequencies and the limitations derived from international frequency coordination agreements.

Likewise, measures are established to promote the evolution of the fleet of digital terrestrial television receivers to enable them to receive broadcasts with the new technological standards.

For the establishment of the date by which all digital multiplexes must evolve to the new technological standards, a series of indicators are established that must be used, and the values to be reached to set that date are defined.

The digital terrestrial television service will be provided in the 470 to 694 MHz frequency band (radio channels 21 to 48) and, in accordance with the objective indicated above, it is established in this regulation that the digital terrestrial television networks (digital multiplexes) and territorial disconnections that existed in the technical plan prior to the one approved by this Royal Decree will be available in said frequency band. Also, in this new technical plan, the current offer of digital terrestrial television channels will be maintained.

This measure ensures the continuity of all existing terrestrial audiovisual media service licences and territorial disconnection of the public television, and reserves the necessary capacity to ensure that all DTT broadcasts will be able to evolve to UHD-resolution broadcasts.

In accordance with the above, this regulation establishes that the digital terrestrial television service is provided through eight digital multiplexes for broadcasts of state-wide and regional coverage, whose planning of radio channels is included in the technical plan that is approved by this Royal Decree.

The eight digital multiplexes (RGE1, RGE2, MPE1, MPE2, MPE3, MPE4, MPE5 and MAUT) provided for in the technical plan approved by this Royal Decree are the same as those already in service under the previous Technical Plan, and the necessary adjustments are made to achieve the objectives indicated above.

In the case of the Spanish Radio and Television Corporation (Corporación Radio y Televisión Española), the capacity of the RGE1 digital multiplex and half of the capacity of the RGE2 digital multiplex are reserved for operation by the national public service. The digital multiplex of regional coverage MAUT is also reserved for each of the Autonomous Communities in its corresponding territorial area.

Holders of digital terrestrial televisual broadcast services with state-wide coverage will use the transmission capacity of the national broadcasting digital multiplexes required to operate the television channels to which their licences entitle them; specifically, they will access the transmission capacity of the MPE1, MPE2, MPE3, MPE4 and MPE5 digital multiplexes and half of the RGE2 digital multiplex.

Annex II of the plan lists the radio channels on which the eight digital multiplexes of national or regional coverage will be operated, in each of the 75 geographical areas provided for therein. Also, Annex I of the plan lists the municipalities included in each of these 75 geographical areas.

The purpose of this Royal Decree is therefore to approve a new national technical plan for digital terrestrial television and to establish measures to promote technological developments in this service.

This standard was drafted and processed according to the principles for good regulation set out in Article 129 of Law 39/2015 of 1 October on Common Administrative Procedures in Public Administration. In particular, with respect to the principle of necessity, the technological evolution of the DTT service in order to make more efficient use of spectrum implies that a new national technical plan for digital terrestrial television must be approved. With reference to the principle of proportionality, as the strictly necessary measures are taken with the least possible impact on citizens and providers of televisual broadcast services. This Royal Decree guarantees legal certainty, since it is aligned with Union law that requires the efficient use of the spectrum. With regard to the principle of transparency, the reasons justifying this regulation and the new plan it approves have been explained, and the procedure for hearing and public information provided for in Article 133 of Law 39/2015 of 1 October on the Common Administrative Procedure of Public Administrations has been carried out. Finally, the principle of efficiency is complied with, as it allows for the achievement of more modern and innovative digital terrestrial television services and greater efficiency in the use of the public radio domain, while at the same time imposing the lowest possible burdens on televisual broadcast service providers.

This instrument has undergone the procedure provided for in Directive (EU) 2015/1535 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 9 September 2015 laying down a procedure for the provision of information in the field of technical regulations and of rules on Information Society services, and Royal Decree 1337/1999 of 31 July regulating reporting in the area of technical rules and regulations and regulations related to Information Society services.

This Royal Decree has been drafted in accordance with the provisions of Article 133 of Law 39/2015 of 1 October on common administrative procedures in public administration, and the draft has been informed by the National Commission on Markets and Competition, pursuant to the provisions of Article 5(2)(a) of Law 3/2013 of 4 June establishing the National Commission on Markets and Competition.

This Royal Decree is issued by virtue of the exclusive competence of the State regarding telecommunications as recognised in Article 149(1)(21) of the Spanish Constitution.

By virtue thereof, on the proposal of the Minister for Digital Transformation and the Civil Service, in agreement with the Council of State, and after deliberation of the Council of Ministers at its meeting on,

I HEREBY DECREE THE FOLLOWING:

Digital terrestrial television (DTT) services of state-wide coverage will be provided through the capacity of seven digital multiplexes specified in the national technical plan for digital terrestrial television which is approved by this Royal Decree, named RGE1, RGE2, MPE1, MPE2, MPE3, MPE4 and MPE5.
2. The Spanish Radio and Television Corporation will operate the RGE1 digital multiplex with state-wide coverage and half of the capacity of the RGE2 digital multiplex with state-wide coverage, for the provision of the public televisual broadcast service.

The technical management of the RGE2 digital multiplex with state-wide coverage will be the responsibility of the Spanish Radio and Television Corporation.

3. Current holders of licences for digital terrestrial televisual broadcast services with state-wide coverage will operate the television channels to which they are entitled by their licences through one quarter of the capacity of the RGE2 digital multiplex, and the capacity of the MPE1, MPE2, MPE3, MPE4 and MPE5 digital multiplexes.

4. The MAUT autonomous community-level multiplex specified in the national technical plan for digital terrestrial television approved by this Royal Decree is reserved for each of the autonomous communities within its territory.

In those Autonomous Communities in which the public televisual broadcast service with regional coverage is provided, the technical management of the MAUT digital multiplex shall be the responsibility of the provider of that service, which must comply with the coverage obligations under the terms indicated in Article 6(2) of Royal Decree 391/2019 of 21 June, approving the National Technical Plan for Digital Terrestrial Television and regulating certain aspects for the release of the second digital dividend.

Article 3. Use of radio channels in digital multiplexes.

The RGE1, RGE2, MPE1, MPE2, MPE3, MPE4, MPE5 and MAUT digital multiplexes will be operated on the radio channels that each of them and each geographical area is assigned in the national technical plan for digital terrestrial television approved by this Royal Decree.

Article 4. Number of television channels in each digital multiplex.

1. Regardless of their area coverage, each digital multiplex with transmission technology in accordance with European telecommunications standard EN 300 744 (DVB-T) has the capacity to integrate four high-definition (HD) television channels.
2. Regardless of their area coverage, each digital multiplex with transmission technology in accordance with European telecommunications standard EN 302 755 (DVB-T2) has the capacity to integrate four ultra-high-definition (UHD) television channels.
3. By order of the head of the Ministry for Digital Transformation and the Civil Service, the number of television channels comprising each digital multiplex may be modified depending on improvements in compression and coding techniques, the available binary capacity, or future technological developments.

In accordance with the provisions of Article 28(4) of Law 13/2022 of 7 July, General on audiovisual communication, the adoption of this measure and the technological improvements that allow greater use of the public domain for audiovisual communication will not entitle licence-holders to exceed the conditions established in their licences, and, in particular, to make use of a greater number of pay-to-view or free-to-air channels than they were authorised to broadcast.

4. The remaining transmission capacity of the digital multiplex may be used, as a measure to boost the Information Society and promote innovation in information and communications technologies, to enable holders of licenses for terrestrial digital televisual broadcast service to provide related or interactive services other than television broadcasting, such as electronic programming guides, teletext, services to improve accessibility for persons with disabilities, such as radio services accessible to the deaf or hearing impaired in DTT, transmission of data files and applications, software updates for equipment, among others.

In the event that this remaining capacity of the digital multiplex is used to provide related or interactive services other than television broadcasting, they may not occupy more than 20 % of the total transmission capacity of said digital multiplex, a percentage that, depending on the development of such related and interactive services, the head of the Ministry for Digital Transformation and the Civil Service may modify, by order. These related or interactive services will not be able to use the identification parameters of the digital terrestrial television service.

Notes:

- The geographical areas are those defined in Annex I.
- RGE1, RGE2, MPE1, MPE2, MPE3, MPE4, MPE5: digital multiplexes for state-wide broadcasting. The frequency plan for the RGE1 digital multiplex provides for the possibility of autonomous community-level coverage variations, for which the geographical areas identified in Annex I are understood to correspond to the territorial limits of the Autonomous Communities.
- MAUT: digital complex of regional coverage. The frequency plan for the MAUT digital multiplex provides for the possibility of regional coverage variations in each province, for which the geographical areas identified in Annex I are understood to correspond to the territorial limits of autonomous community-level and provincial coverage.

ANNEX III

Definitions

1. Radio channel: portion of the radio spectrum used for broadcasting a television signal from a radio station. This is often also referred to as radio frequency.
2. Single-frequency network: where several radio stations are able to cover a certain territorial area, known as a service area, using the same radio frequency or channel in all stations.
3. Digital multiplex: a composite signal to transmit a radio channel or frequency and which, when using digital technology, allows the incorporation of signals corresponding to several television channels and signals corresponding to several associated services and electronic communications services.
4. Television channel or digital channel: a set of television programmes organised within a programming schedule that cannot be altered by the public.
5. Geographical area: area of land covered from a radio point of view by the main broadcasting transmitter, the secondary transmitters that pick up the primary signal from said transmitter and the smaller transmitters that do not pick up the primary signal from the main transmitter but have overlapping coverage with it or with one of its secondary transmitters. The geographic areas for the Technical DTT Plan are those given in Annex I.
6. Technical management of the digital multiplex: organisation and technical and administrative coordination of the technical services and resources, whether shared between different qualified entities or by only one of them exclusively, that must be used for the proper operation of the digital channels that make up that digital multiplex.
